

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN OF ALABAMA STATE CONVENTION - APRIL 4 - 6, 2008

Focus Your Vision Opens State Convention

AAUW of Alabama state convention opens with Focus Your Vision, the newest DVD release by Dewitt Jones, one of Americas top professional photographers. Twenty years with National Geographic, photographing stories all over the globe, has earned Dewitt the reputation as a world-class photojournalist. As a motion picture director, two of Dewitt's films were nominated for Academy Awards. His inspirational messages focus on creativity as a matter of perspective and that there is always more than one right answer. Publisher of nine books including California! and John Muir's High Sierra, his most recent book, The Nature of Leadership, was created in collaboration with Stephen R. Covey (The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People).

Guest Speaker Connie Hildebrand, AAUW Public Policy Chair, Bismarck, ND, will expound on AAUW's vision following the DVD viewing. Connie will also speak to the student body at the University of North Alabama at the Friday preconvention workshop, Ready to Run, and interact with members, students, and guests throughout the weekend.

Don't Miss THE SHOALS

Mary Lou Melley and Lilly M. Ledbetter to Speak at Legal Advocacy Fund Banquet

Meet the women on the front lines of AAUW Public Policy who lobby and testify before the United States Congress: Mary Lou Melley, AAUW Capitol Hill Lobby Corps Chair, and Lilly M. Ledbetter, Plaintiff, Ledbetter vs. Goodyear. They will share their stories at the Legal Advocacy Fund Banquet, Marriott Shoals Conference Center, Florence, AL, Saturday evening, April 5, 2008.

Whether fighting for gender equity in education, championing moderate jurists for federal courts, or supporting measures to improve economic security, AAUW's Capitol Hill Lobby Corps is on the scene continuing a 30-year AAUW legacy.

Once a week, volunteer members and college student interns give AAUW a voice and a face on Capitol Hill. Since its formation in 1972, the Lobby Corps has made tens of thousands of visits to congressional offices, making AAUW a familiar and respected name among members of Congress and their staffs. Because of this corps, working hand in hand with lobbying staff, AAUW has had a significant political impact on legislation concerning issues such as education, civil rights, reproductive rights, and economic security. Volunteers receive comprehensive training as well as briefings on key issues likely to be come before Congress.

Register now, $45 per person, for an enjoyable evening in support of AAUW LAF. Network and socialize before dinner to the piano music of Sharon Howart, piano major, University of North Alabama. Sharon is the recipient of a Shoals Branch scholarship.

President's Message

“By joining AAUW, you belong to a community that breaks through educational and economic barriers so all women have a fair chance.” This is the Value Promise at the core of the Association and Educational Foundation boards as they met jointly to conduct business for the organizations in concert, carrying forward the mandate from the members to create a single, unified AAUW 501 (c) (3) organization.

When the AAUW of Alabama board of directors meets on April 4, 2008, I will ask them to adopt this same Value Promise as we plan for 2008-09 and beyond.

I want to thank the nominating committee for selecting a slate of officers that represents different branches in the state. Current officers with terms ending June 30, 2009 are Membership Vice President Elizabeth Gilbert, Auburn; Recording Secretary Janet Smith, Montgomery; and Veronica Bryant, Birmingham. I will continue to serve as your Past President. According to the bylaws, Jo Ann Cummings will notify the branch presidents of the nominees. Individual members and branch presidents are encouraged to present nominees from the floor at the annual business meeting on Sunday, April 6, 2008.

The National Conference for College Women Student Leaders will be held in Washington, DC, from June 5 – 7, 2008. AAUW of Alabama budgeted $1,000 to assist one or more Alabama students to attend. Please consider selecting and sponsoring a student from a college/university in the geographical area of your branch. The students are our future.

Applications are arriving for the AAUW of Alabama Student Advisory Council. The first applications arrived from Jacksonville State University. They are sending six college/university students.

AAUW has made a commitment to an annual meeting in St. Louis, MO by June 2009. Let's all plan to make these travel plans to the national convention to see Dr. Elizabeth Hendrix, AAUW of Alabama Ready to Run Project Co-Director, who is a professor, Missouri Western University, St. Joseph, MO. After all, she is flying here for our convention in April. See you in Florence.

Regional Director Message

AAUW is now calling for applications and vitae for volunteers to serve on several national committees: Bylaws, Finance, Membership, Program Development, Public Policy, and Resolutions. The application form, supplemental questions, committee job description and working rules are available on the AAUW web site at http://stageaauw.aauw.org/About/leadership/leadership_opportunities.cfm (scroll down to “Association vacancy listings”). The complete form and appropriate committee questions should be submitted electronically to the Executive Office. If a candidate is unable to download the materials, please contact the Executive Office at executive@aauw.org or by telephone 202/785-7788, indicating the position being sought. Each candidate can apply for one position only. Applications are due May 15, 2008. Volunteers are reimbursed by AAUW for their travel, hotel, and meal expenses when attending committee meetings and for expenses incurred (such as telephone and copying) in the exercise of the responsibilities of their position. Please consider serving on one of these national committees.

The 2008 National Conference for College Women Student Leaders is coming! To find out about this year's offerings, Women of Distinction Awards, registration, and scholarship opportunities by visiting the conference website at www.nccwsl.org. Students can register online and members can spread the word about the conference by using the “Recommend NCCWSL” feature on the website. I would hope that branches would consider sponsoring a student to attend this conference.

AAUW of Alabama to Partner with Rutgers University

AAUW of Alabama is proud to announce negotiations are in process with Rutgers University, Center for American Women and Politics, Eagleton Institute of Politics, for a partnership in their Ready to Run program. This is an incredible opportunity for AAUW and AAUW of Alabama as the Center for American Women and Politics is the premier authority on Women and Politics. Lisa Maatz, AAUW Director of Public Policy and Government Relations, is serving as AAUW and AAUW of Alabama negotiator.

In March, AAUW of Alabama President, Audrey L. Salgado, and AAUW of Alabama Ready to Run Project Co-Directors, Dr. Elizabeth Hendrix and Mildred Lanier, will receive training at Rutgers University at their Ready to Run pre-conference for women of color and a one day intensive conference for training women for government leadership. Following the training, they will meet with Debbie Walsh, Eagleton Institute of Politics Director, to review the memo of understanding.

Ready to Run is Up and Running!

The concept for Ready to Run is an outcome of AAUW of Alabama's Program Theme Team and Public Policy Committee. In the process of developing statewide programs to support the national theme, "Education as the Gateway to Women's Economic Security," discussions revolved around the problems in Alabama. After much research, it was determined the problems affecting Alabama women and their issues are centered on the fundamentally flawed Alabama Constitution and the insufficient number of women participating in governmental processes. Therefore, the Program Theme Team and Public Policy Committee concluded that the voice of women in Alabama had to be stronger. Ready to Run was developed to prepare Alabama women to run for elected office. A grant was awarded by the AAUW Educational Foundation to develop the program.

Ready to Run is now in its third month of implementation. 25 women are participating in training sessions in Birmingham and Huntsville, held at the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail facilities in each city. Presented by members of the Ready to Run team, the first session in January covered Qualifying and Filing; February's topic was developing a Campaign Team; Networking is the theme for March. The topic for April is Fund-raising, and Your Campaign Message will conclude the program in May.

Each session features guest speakers who offer special insight on the topic of the day. Judging by the enthusiastic response from the participants the inventive curriculum, coupled with the presence of experts in the field, is truly helping to make Alabama women Ready to Run!

Ready to Run Guest Speakers

January: Birmingham, Cary Page, Volunteer Lobbyist; Huntsville, The Honorable Hartwell Lutz, Retired Judge

February: Birmingham, John T. Smallwood, Campaign Consultant; Huntsville, The Honorable Loretta Spencer, Mayor of Huntsville

AAUW MISSION STATEMENT

AAUW advances equity for women and girls through advocacy, education and research.

Calling All Leaders!

AAUW Announces New Leadership Development DVD Series

AAUW is pleased to announce a new series of leadership-focused DVDs created for distribution during the 2008 state convention season and other leadership events. As we work to strengthen and revitalize AAUW, all members must connect together as a community of active and effective participants. To fulfill our mission of advancing equity for women and girls, AAUW continues to need strong leaders who will make sure the AAUW legacy continues. In the past, only two members per state participated in national level leadership training. This new series of DVDs will provide leadership skills and strategies for all members.

Each state's leadership exercised their scheduling option to present the DVDs. States will make the DVD series available to branches after their state event. A representative of the national leadership, including AAUW or Educational Foundation board members and regional directors, will attend one event for each state to listen and hear from members across the country.

The DVDs are divided into modules which focus on leadership development as it relates to particular aspects of AAUW's mission. Each module includes a discussion guide for participants. It's vital that all of us can easily discuss AAUW's mission... with a consistent message which will enable us to retain our current members and recruit the new and diverse membership of tomorrow.

The leaders' introduction module features a conversation with AAUW President Ruth Sweetser, AAUW Educational Foundation President Barbara O'Connor, and new AAUW Executive Director Linda Hallman. They chart an inspiring course for AAUW's future, with a mission-focused message that members will share with their local branches. Together, these three leaders

- provide a "state of AAUW" message;
- summarize the strategic process journey for AAUW's future;
- explain AAUW's mission and how it relate to members, branches, the future of our organization; and
- discuss the impact of AAUW mission-focused branch activities on their communities.

This first module will be featured at the AAUW of Alabama State Convention on Sunday, April 6, 2008.

The remainder of the DVD modules focus on specific areas of AAUW programming and business, as well as other topics. These modules describe how you can become involved in—or strengthen your current involvement with—vital areas of AAUW's mission.

To advance equity through advocacy, AAUW staff leaders describe

- how you can become an effective advocate for AAUW priority issues;
- how you can help mobilize women voters at the grassroots level in the upcoming elections;
- how you can stay current with issues that impact the higher education of women, and the subtleties of the politics involved, through AAUW public policy resources and updates; and
- how you can help eliminate sex discrimination on campus through the AAUW Legal Advocacy Fund.

To advance equity through education and research, AAUW staff leaders

- introduce AAUW's latest research report—its findings and recommendations, media and promotional outreach tools, and how you can share this information with your branch;
- provide an overview on the National Girls Collaborative Project and how you can promote STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) initiatives in your community;
- describe how you can encourage women's leadership development through AAUW's National Conference for College Women Student Leaders and Campus Action Projects; and
- report on AAUW's fellowships and grants, tell how you can meet local recipients, and hear their stories to motivate involvement and investment in AAUW philanthropy.

To build a stronger community, AAUW staff leaders in the membership, fundraising, communications, and marketing DVD modules discuss

- why it is so important to tell the AAUW story and marketing (it's not a bad word!) is every member's responsibility;
- why effective communication and information sharing are important to building a community as AAUW moves into the future;
- how branch and individual contributions make a difference;
- how you can use AAUW's website, videos, DVDs, and other materials to advance our mission in your branch.

The last three hours of this leadership development module will be featured at the AAUW of Alabama leadership conference in Birmingham, AL, on Saturday, June 7, 2008.

At this critical stage in our history, AAUW needs the active engagement of all members delivering the mission to advance equity for women. With leadership training through the DVD series, all AAUW members will be better prepared to focus their mission-based efforts, recruit new members, and further develop their leadership potential...because equity is still an issue!

Keren McElvy, White House Intern

Challenges are obstacles to overcome, not barriers by which to be burdened. This concept taught me to reach for my dreams. As a result, this past semester I had the privilege of interning for the White House and traveling to Europe.

On a hot, July day my dream to become a White House intern came true. On the other line was the woman who was soon to be my supervisor as I interned for the White House Office of Media Affairs. This experience provided the opportunity to learn from disciplined, persevering people who were committed to working long hours in order to serve the country. Being in the D.C. environment challenged me to give my best in my vocation and have a goal outside myself to motivate my actions.

In January, my school offered the opportunity to take an art and theater appreciation class in Europe. For the first two weeks, I traveled to Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria. The last two weeks I spent taking the class where I was exposed to incredible art museums, majestic cathedrals, and phenomenal plays. Witnessing the beauty of Europe in light of two world wars gave me a great respect for the accomplishments of Europeans and their ability to press on despite the emotional and physical challenges of rebuilding their countries.

The reward of having these experiences has taught me to always keep my eyes on the prize and to not allow adversity to distract me from accomplishing my goals. Don't let challenges prevent you from pursuing your dreams, rather use them as stepping-stones to conquer your fears and achieve your greatest passions.
